

(3) Tassal by Preston Lane Architects

Designed by Preston Lane Architects, the fitout for the new Hobart office for salmon producer Tassal focuses on pulling office functions off the building's perimeter. This strategic move not only celebrates the office's 360-degree views across Hobart's waterfront, but also reflects the client's desire for a free-flowing work environment. "Floating" office pods are scattered throughout the open plan, providing varied workstations and private rooms. The pods (like salmon ponds downstream) are rich in texture and layered with material repetition to create a sense of movement within the space.
